The G. A. R. Veterans will ride in automobiles, as well as such Spanish-American war veterans as do not participate with other organizations. The contingent of nurses who were in U. The Crosby band, a recently organized outfit, will be invited to participate in the day's observance, and will no doubt be here, accompanied by many visitors from the Potato Creek valley.

This will be a historical occasion in the annals of Memorial Day observations in Smethport, the first under the direction of Bucktail Post. They have taken over a sacred trust and for the next half century will keep green the graves of those who have answered the ultimate roll call. Most of the boys who gave their lives in the recent struggle are resting the long rest near where they fell, but the local post now has four graves to receive loving attention. Keith Pratt in Rose Hill, Capt. Oscar Haystead at Colegrove, Fred H. Bloomster at Kasson and Henry L. Herzog at Farmers Valley.

Memorial services will be held at the Baptist Church next Sunday evening, conducted by the Rev. Arthur Gregson. His subject will be: "Sacrifice, the Seed of Freedom. Members of the Bucktail Post and Spanish-American war veterans are asked to meet at the Rose House at 7 p.m. Sunday and attend this service in a body.

MAY HAVE BEEN GROVER BERGDOLL THE SLACKER

County Commissioner J. P. O'Connor was in Wellsville, N. Y., Sunday and told of a couple of men who went through that city in a racing car, making a speed estimated at 100 miles per hour. They were going so fast that it was impossible to recognize them, but resembled descriptions of the car owned by Grover Bergdoll, the slacker, who escaped from military prison authorities in Philadelphia last week. It is an actual fact that the car was going so fast that repeated efforts to head them off by telephone were unsuccessful and the car dashed through a dozen towns ahead of telephone calls until it was lost track of near Corning, N. Y.

At one place on the route it is stated as an absolute fact that the car jumped a gap ten feet wide where a bridge crossing a small stream was out while repairs were being made.

OLEAN MAN IN RIVER

Harry Bible of Olean had a narrow escape from drowning while going to the rescue of a young man and young woman whose canoe had been caught in the current in the Allegheny river in Riverhurst Park on Sunday.

The young man and young woman paddled into the current, and as they were novices in the game, were soon seen drifting helplessly down the river. Mr. Bible, the proprietor of Robie's tea rooms, in West State street, paddled into a canoe to go to their assistance. His craft turned over, and he was thrown into the water. He was fortunate that the canoe turned upright again, and he came up along the side of it. He was able to pull himself into it and then rescue the occupants of the canoe in the current.

DEATH OF MRS. CARRIE WALTER

Mrs. J. J. Johnston of this place received a telegram last week announcing the death of her sister, Mrs. Carrie Walter, in Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. Carrie Walter, nee Otto, was born and raised in Farmers Valley, leaving this vicinity in 1901 for California where she has since resided. Her sudden death was a great shock to her friends and relatives here as Mrs. Walter had long been planning a visit to her childhood home this summer. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Blanche Guirado, a grandson, Frank Guirado, and a son Frank Walter, all of Los Angeles. A sister, Mrs. E. E. Post, Olean, N. Y., one brother, George Otto of Olean, and a sister, Mrs. J. J. Johnston of this place.

DEATH OF MRS. C. L. IRONS

The death of Mrs. C. L. Irons of East Main street, occurred Tuesday night after the highly esteemed woman had suffered a long illness. At times her condition seemed to improve and as a matter of fact she was able to be out for a short time last Sunday. Soon after, however, she suffered a relapse and repeated efforts to rally her waining vitality were without effect. She is survived by her husband, C. L. Irons and daughter, Miss Alice Irons. A more extended notice will appear next week.

JOSEPH LAMBRO WAS GRANTED A NEW TRIAL

Tuesday afternoon in court presided over by Judge J. W. Bouton a new trial was granted Joseph Lambro, who was convicted of first degree murder at the February term for the killing of Tony Moreno of Bradford. Hon. John A. Fitzgibbon of Bradford is Lambro's attorney and has been untiring in efforts on behalf of the condemned man.

It is expected that the case will be called at the June term, but there is a possibility of its being continued until the October term.

It is understood that the request for a new trial was granted by the Hon. Joseph Bouton, not on newly discovered evidence, but on the exclusion of certain evidence given by Ex-Sheriff E. W. Jones at the previous trial.

KILLED NEAR PORT ALLEGANY

An automobile accident occurred about two miles from here at 9 o'clock Friday morning, in which John McKnight of Johnsonburg, about 30 years of age, was killed and Ralph O'Connell, also of Johnsonburg, was injured, although not seriously. James Devens of Emporium, who drove the Ford car in which the three were riding, escaped injury although jarred up to some extent.

The three young men are employes of the paper mill at Johnsonburg and had been visitors in Port Allegany, starting for home Friday morning. At the point where the accident occurred the car was descending a decline at a curve. Here the car was turned out to pass a woman driving a horse and buggy. The car slid and in so doing the back wheel was broken off and the machine left the road and struck a tree at the curve. The impact threw McKnight and O'Connell out of the car but Devens remained within, notwithstanding the fact that the car went down an embankment.

Word was sent to Port Allegany for Dr. McGranor, who hurried to the scene. When he arrived, he found that Devens had gone down the road to a telephone, while McKnight was lying in the ditch, dead, and O'Connell was too dazed to talk, so the physician could not learn much of the accident until Devens later came to Dr. McGranor's hospital, where O'Connell had been taken.

The physician found upon examination that McKnight's death was due to a fractured skull. His body was removed to Grabe's undertaking rooms. Deceased is married and his wife was notified at once of his death. The other two men are unmarried.

THE LAST CALL

Next Thursday, June 3, the subscription price of the Miner increases to $2.50 per year. Ample notification of this fact has been given and many subscribers have availed themselves of the opportunity of renewing their subscriptions at the $2.00 rate. Up to and including next Thursday subscriptions will be accepted at the $2.00 per year rate, after that date the price will be $2.50 per year to everyone. This raise in price is an absolute necessity, and we give subscribers the opportunity to save the 50 cents per year as a matter of fairness, trusting that the large number of subscriptions paid two, three, four or five years in advance will make another increase unnecessary for several years to come, and always with the possibility of prices reaching a normal level, when the subscription rate can again be set at $2.00 per year.

This is the last week that extra copies of the MINER can be secured for 5 cents. Starting with the issue of June 3, extra copies of the paper will be 5 cents, and when mailing is necessary 10 cents per copy will be charged.

ATTENTION FIREMEN!

The lock on the Hose House will be changed Thursday evening, June 3. The secretary will have the keys to this lock at the regular meeting held that evening, at which time every member may obtain a key. Old keys are to be turned in at this time. American Legion Co. Convention

THE GREATEST PUBLIC GATHERING IN THE HISTORY OF THE TOWN WILL OCCUR PROBABLY IN AUGUST WHEN 3,000 SOLDIERS AND SAILORS WILL ASSEMBLE HERE.

The county committee representing the American Legion Posts of the county met in Bradford last Wednesday and decided the motion to have the first county reunion of the soldiers and sailors held in Smethport upon dates to be decided later. Capt. J. C. Rowan was chairman of the meeting and Maj. W. A. Ostrander was secretary. A committee on organization and by-laws for the county association was named as follows: Col. F. P. Schoonmaker of Bradford, Lieut. E. G. Potter of Smethport, Lieut. J. P. O'Connor of Port Allegany, Lieut. Basil Dolphin of Kane.

Any member of the Legion will have a right to express himself on the floor of the coming convention so that the organization hopes to start its career in a manner to please every member.

Maj. Ostrander informs the MINER that this meeting will be of a magnitude never before approached in this town. The present plans outside of the business sessions call for a mammoth parade and banquet, a field day that will bring together the best athletes in the county, and as a leading feature a competitive drill between squads from the four posts in the county.

Maj. Ostrander is confident that the post will be able to secure the 16th Regiment Band of 54 pieces of Oil City for this occasion and has other stellar attractions under consideration that will be announced later. That the fair grounds will be turned into a temporary army encampment is one of the possibilities, and although preliminary plans are only in the making it is safe to say that the occasion will make a red-letter date in the history of Smethport.

NO EVIDENCE AGAINST THEM SUSPECTS WERE RELEASED

"Chocey" Farrell, the yegg who blew up the safe in the local post office during C. H. Heath's regime, and who served time therefor, blew into town Wednesday and was lodged in the accommodation parlor at the city bastile.

As soon as he was located for the night, the wires were made hot with messages, and the midnight flyer brought railroad detectives here who arrested Farrell on suspicion.

In the meantime at Bradford three other yeggs believed to be Farrell's pards, were taken in by the police there. They gave their names as George Clark, Joseph Sheridan and Robert Morgan. Whether or not they are members of Farrell's gang remains to be seen.

A bottle of glycerine was found on them and $251 in money.

County Detective Allison and two Pennsylvania railroad policemen took Farrell to Bradford yesterday morning in Allison's car. Farrell has a bad record back of him. He has served five terms of imprisonment, serving both in penitentiary and federal prison. Two of the terms he served were for five years each. Besides robbing the Eldred post office, he robbed the post office at Ellicottville and took part in a desperate shooting match with the Olean police. So far the police have no specific charge against the prisoners, and if none is brought against them, of course, in the end they will be liberated. Farrell was born in Olean and is possibly 45 years of age. Eldred Eagle.

These men were discharged from custody Friday as no evidence was brought to connect them with recent crimes. Farrell, while having a bad record, is now said to be treading the straight and narrow path of rectitude. The other men were strangers to the authorities, but were warned that if caught together again in the county that sentences for vagrancy would follow.

JONES FOR CONGRESS BOAL AND GILLETT FOR DELEGATES

As announced in a bulletin in last week's MINER issued Wednesday afternoon, Hon. Evan J. Jones of Bradford was successful in securing the Republican nomination as Congressman from this district, with a comfortable plurality over George Mines, Jr., of DuBois.

While the official returns from the four counties comprising the district are not yet at hand it is clearly evident that Theodore Davis Boal of Center County and Melville Gillett of Smethport are elected as delegates to the National Republican Convention to be held in Chicago, June 8. The contest between Capt. Gillett and Harry B. Scott was an interesting one and figures now at hand give Capt. Gillett a lead of about 120 votes. He is being warmly congratulated on achieving a well earned victory.

McKean County vote on Congress and delegates to Republican National Convention is as follows: Congress Jones 1762, Mines 447. Delegates, Earl 208, Boose 330, Richardson 77, Gaffney 1008, Gillett 1217, Scott 408.

ELDRED HAS A FINE WATER SUPPLY

County Health Officer, Dr. W. A. Ostrander of Smethport was in Eldred yesterday to look over the local situation in the matter of water and sewers.

In company with him and C. S. King, receiver for the local water company, the writer made a trip to the source of the town's water supply. The result was worth special mention.

"I don't believe there's a better water supply in the state," said Dr. Ostrander.

The water is received from five intakes and two reservoirs hold back the reserve.

At the Welch reservoir, is the domestic supply, and this reservoir was running over. It is made of cement and the water was as clear as glass, not a particle of dirt, vegetable or animal life in it, and although seven feet deep at the front, the smallest marks on the bottom could be easily distinguished.

At the Biggin's reservoir an inlet pipe has been run up to the flow, the surplus water runs directly into the reservoir, this last being held in reserve for use in case of fire. It was being drained yesterday, and cleaned out. There were quite a number of frogs in this reservoir and, by the way this water was going out the drain pipe, they will soon lose their happy home, but, this water is not used for domestic use, now, as the new intake pipe catches the supply above the reservoir, a good idea of Mr. King's and a big improvement.

At the Canfey spring an intake catches the water a couple of rods from the spring. This is a big improvement over the open creek dam heretofore used a distance below, located in a cow pasture. As it is now, it could only be improved by putting a small reservoir around the spring, but for some reason the property owners will not sell at any price with in reason, so Mr. King ran a line up to the edge of the property and gets the water all right, clear and fresh, just the same. Dr. Ostrander was well pleased with the whole arrangement and said it compared favorably with any water supply he had ever seen, and was superior to most of them.

The trouble with animal matter in the lines in town will be remedied by a series of flushing from the hydrants. There is plenty of water to do this with so that, with the lines once thoroughly cleaned, Eldred may boast of as good a water service as any place in the country. Certainly no contamination is possible from natural causes at the source.

With proper care as to leaks and useless waste of water by the patrons, there should be an abundance for all needs at all times, as the five intakes feeding the line, are all from springs of a seemingly inexhaustable source.

Mr. King must be given credit for putting the system into such good condition. The writer examined this system with a committee of local business men, a few years ago, and the report made wasn't very favorable, in fact it had no redeeming features at all. Yesterday's trip was a revelation as to the changes that have been made, and no matter what complaint may be, it certainly cannot be attributed to the source of supply as long as it is maintained in the condition it was found to exist at yesterday's investigation.

As to the sewerage, the complaint is about the Elm street drainage. A sewer is needed and the property owners are willing to stand their share; the council some time ago favored it and had it surveyed and a blue print made, but the state refused permission to connect to the service sewer because no disposal plant is available. Dr. Ostrander is the first county health officer to look into the matter, and he may be able to untie some of the red tape. Elm street is entitled to sewerage but it has been jockied along now till the cost will probably head it off again.—Eldred Eagle.

PORT ALLEGANY

The death of Mrs. Abbie Earl took place very suddenly Monday morning 6:30 o'clock at her home on Chestnut street as the result of a stroke of apoplexy. Mrs. Earl had just risen for the day, when stricken death coming almost immediately. She was 74 years of age. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock Rev. C. E. Odell officiating and interment was made in the Saltwell Creek cemetery beside her husband who died some years ago. Mrs. Earl was born at Millerton, N. Y. near Elmira. For a long time she resided at Coudersport, coming here about fourteen years ago and has since lived here. She is survived by one son, Nelson Criss of Coudersport, and by four daughters, Mrs. William Hurd, Mrs. James Jordan, Mrs. B. E. Andrews and Mrs. Sherman Chapin, all of this place. She was a very estimable woman, highly thought of by all who knew her, and will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

Many people were much interested Wednesday evening in watching R. M. Wharton of Pittsburg, a recruiting officer for the U. S. Navy, climb the flag pole on the square on Wednesday evening. The rope for hoisting the flag had become unfastened and Mr. Wharton replaced it. Climbing seemingly has no difficulties for the young men of the Navy.

Miss Rose Tronetti was married to Morris Bressan Saturday morning at 8 o'clock by Father W. Becker. The happy young couple are spending a few days at Buffalo. Congratulations. —Reporter-Argus.

THE PENNSYLVANIA DESERT

Harrisburg, Pa., May 21.—Pennsylvania's forestry may be mapped from an aeroplane. Gifford Pinchot, the chief state forester, today announced that he asked for estimates by a commercial aerial concern, and if the cost is not prohibitive the project will be undertaken.

Commissioner Pinchot explained that no map showing the distribution of timberland in this state, private and state-owned, exists. He declared there was need for such a map in order to show the citizens the vast extent of the potential timberlands, and also to impress upon the public the enormous territory of 5,000,000 acres occupied by the "Pennsylvania Desert." This is the territory that has been lumbered and burned-over so often that it is producing virtually nothing of value.

IN DEFENSE OF "HELLO-GIRL"

In the current issue of "Outlook" there is an article by Sherman Rogers entitled "Hello, Central!" It is written by a man who married a "Hello" girl and he should know whereof he speaks.

The article on a whole is a defense of the girl at the telephone switchboard, and this is a time when such a defense is very much to the point. With all public utilities suffering from the war and reconstruction periods, an additional burden has been thrown on the trained telephone operator because of the shortage of equipment and the fact that many new girls are not yet classed as experts are helping out.

Mr. Rogers gives example after example of heroic deeds done by telephone operators at the risk of their lives. He may be biased from the fact that he married one of them.

He concludes by saying.

"Fortunately for the public, the telephone girl has always proved herself to be a person of unusual presence of mind and ever-ready resources. She is made alert by her work and her mind is trained to constant action. She has to learn self-control, since there is hardly another position so trying and made so unpleasant by the idiosyncrasies of unfeeling telephone subscribers. If a girl can keep her wits under the bombardment of abuse, censure, silly questions and overtures from mashers, it is difficult to imagine circumstances that would cause her to lose her hand. The telephone girl is undoubtedly one of the most intelligent, refined and necessary element in modern society. She has been grossly maligned by wooden headed upstarts.

"Gentlemen never swear at operators, nor abuse them. People who wear trousers, but are not included in the latter class, should hang their heads in shame when they realize the character of the girls they are so prone to abuse. Every community owes much to the telephone girl and should vigorously resent any light-headed aspersions to her discredit.

"I was asked a few days ago about the temperament of phone operators. I answered the query by saying that I had married an exchange girl and that after two years of married life I had never seen her flustered in the slightest degree and that I couldn't give them any better recommendation than by vigorously asserting that if I had it to do over again I would certainly pick a telephone operator for my better half.

McKean County Miner

HARRY L. BACKUS, Owner.
ROSS K. KNAPP, Editor and Manager.

Thursday, May 27, 1920.

The MINER was the first paper in the county to announce the winners in the fight for delegates to the Republican National Convention. While its information was questioned when it appeared Wednesday afternoon it proved to be the correct dope when the official count in the district was completed Saturday.

The coming convention of the American Legion in Smethport will be the greatest public meeting ever held in the town and should be regarded from the first in the light of something bigger than has ever been handled here heretofore. It will be the first event of its kind ever held in the county and one of the first in the state and should be made an occasion that will endure for years in the history of the town.

The Saturday Evening Post, the nation's leading barber shop weekly, is so thoroughly impregnated with Hoover propoganda that it spills over into the fiction. It is bad enough that the publishers take subscribers money for that sort of reading matter, but to have the leading writers of fiction thus commercialize their art is deplorable—even alarming. Whatever good this insidious campaign may do to Mr. Hoover it cannot help but injure the general popularity of this great publication; while fiction writers who sell their services in this deceptive cause are going to lose many admirers.

Secretary Houston predicts that prices will come down, but not immediately. Prices are high, he says, because of the abnormal demand created by the war, together with some profiteering. In prophesying that they will be lower, Mr. Houston assumes that industries will continue to operate and that eventually the supply will catch up with the demand. That will be true only if labor continues to produce, and refrains from strikes. If every able-bodied man were to give a good day's work in return for a good day's pay, the law of supply and demand would soon bring about a reduction in the cost of living.

Levi P. Morton died on his ninety-sixth birthday. He was a real American, being a direct descendent of one of the leaders of the Pilgrims, and early in life espousing the Republican cause which he recognized as containing the doctrines essential to his country's prosperity and happiness. He was eminently successful in business, but he found time to give of his energy and ability toward the affairs of the nation itself. In 1879 he was elected a Republican member of the 46th Congress from his home district in New York. In 1881 President Garfield appointed him minister to France. In 1889 he was elected Vice President of the United States on the ticket with President Harrison. At the expiration of his term Mr. Morton still considered himself at the service of his fellow citizens, and in 1895 served them as Governor of the state of New York. In late years Mr. Morton made his winter home at Washington, where he could observe at close range the operations of the national government, in which he maintained an intense interest to the last.

WHERE WAS FULFILLMENT?

A challenge to the Democrats to itemize their boasted fulfillment of promises, was issued today by the Republican Publicity Association, in a statement given out by the president of that organization, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. The statement quotes a Democratic State Chairman's assertion that "Then Wilson came and party promises became fruitful." Commenting upon this boast, the Republican challenge says:

"'Fruitful' indeed, but fruitful of what? Certainly not fruitful of fulfillment of promises, for that same Democratic chairman cannot take the promises of the 1912 platform on which President Wilson came into power and point out wherein they have been fulfilled."

Here are the chief promises, in the order they appear in the platform, and the manner of their fulfillment:

"1. Revision of the tariff without injury to any legitimate industry. Result, increase of imports, closing of mills, and 4,000,000 men out of work in 1913-14.

2. Reduction of the high cost of living. Result, steadily increasing cost from the day the Wilson administration began.

3. Enforcement of the criminal laws against private monopoly. Result, no administration action against alleged trusts has been of the slightest benefit to the people of the country.

4. Preservation of states' rights. Result, the Federal Government has made greater progress in securing power over the people of the states during the Wilson administration than in all the previous history of the nation since the adoption of the Constitution.

5. Presidential primaries. Result, no action in that direction by the Wilson administration such legislation having been adopted by states if at all.

6. Single presidential term. Result, second term secured for Wilson by false slogan, and a third term not yet renounced.

7. Efficiency and economy in administration. Result, the most inefficient and wasteful administration in history.

8. Banking legislation 'for the accommodation of the public and not for the control of business.' Result, a Federal Reserve System which is dominated by politics and which stimulates or depresses business at the will of its managers.

9. A merchant marine without imposing additional burdens upon the people. Result, the most expensive shipping program in history.

10. Exemption of coastwise shipping from tolls through the Panama Canal. Result, repeal of the free tolls law.

11. Merit system in civil service. Result, more politics than ever before in appointments.

12. Rule of the people. Result, the establishment of an autocracy in the White House with both houses of Congress subservient as long as a Democratic majority was in control of the legislative branch of the government."

WITHERING DEMOCRATIC HOPES

When the Knox peace resolution goes to the President he will return it with his veto and resubmit the treaty for further consideration by the Senate, his secretary says.

What, if anything, he will have to say about reservations his cabinet does not know. He does not talk much at his infrequent meetings with cabinet officers, and the suspicion exists that those thrown officially in his society do not enjoy him much. They go to the White House and leave it with about the same sum total of information they had when they arrived.

Meanwhile something very like creeping paralysis is clutching the Democratic party. Its pulse is irregular and wiry, its body stiffened, its limbs benumbed, its movements clumsy and its brain clouded. The blight of a despotic influence which it is apparently unable to shake off, fills it with dread. To all intents and purposes it is a prisoner, confined in gloomy quarters, and under lock and key. Its grim jailor sits in the White House suffering from nobody knows exactly what disease, shunning all association with those of his party entitled to counsel with him on the state of the union. Cabinet members, senators, congressmen, ambassadors from foreign nations, governors, all are flatly denied admission or confidence. He sits in solitude, so far as his party is concerned, distrustful, resentful, petulant and disagreeable. And day by day the paralysis of the Democratic party creeps on. The ambitions of its best men are checked by fear of presidential displeasure, their hearts chilled by the ravaging political effects of presidential stubbonness and surly egotism, and their hopes dashed by autocratic intolerance.

Nothing seems left for the Democratic party but to hang its harps on the willows and prepare for a long, long period of mourning.—Omaha Bee.

The Senatee has passed the urgent deficiency bill carrying $300,000,000 for defraying expenses incurred during the Federal control of the railroads. The total loss to the government as the result of Federal control was estimated at $1,375,000,000 in a recent report to the House of Representatives from the committee on appropriations. The actual loss during the 26 months of active government control was placed at $904,000,000. Estimated guarantees to the railroads under the terms of the transportation act bring up the amount by $225,000,000. In addition, the government has loaned to the railroads $862,000,000 that may never be recovered as most of this sum was applied to prevent several railroads from going into receivership during Federal operation. "Whatever may be our opinion of this Federal control during the war," stated Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming, "we should not forget that it cost the people at least $1,375,000,000 for service during that period which would not have been tolerated if the railroads had been under private management. Now they must pay the high cost of government operation."

HOW WILSON KEPT WOOD OUT OF WAR

Transferred From Pillar to Post Away From Front—Steel and Coal Strikes.

By JOHN G. HOLME,
Author of "The Life of Leonard Wood."

VIII.

The attitude taken by the administration in Washington toward Leonard Wood's preparedness campaign is a familiar subject to all Americans today. The administration did not approve of Wood, nor of his work. No one knew this better than the General himself, and he pursued his course with open eyes, knowing full well that the Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, President Wilson, frowned on his efforts. Wood deliberately jeopardized his own career, his chances for whatever glory there might be gained in the great war toward which the nation was heading. Therefore, no motive could have been ascribed for his noble efforts except the one of intense patriotism.

In August, 1915, Lindley M. Garrison, then Secretary of War, savagely rebuked Wood for inviting the late Theodore Roosevelt to speak before the Plattsburgh officers' camp. Roosevelt said nothing in his address before the officers in criticism of the administration, but later in the day he issued a statement criticising Wilson's note writing. This he did at the Plattsburg railway station way outside the camp. The whole press of the country came to General Wood's aid, denouncing Garrison for his action.

Immediately after the war was declared, Wood wrote and personally delivered two letters, one to the Adjutant General of the Army and the other to the Chief of Staff, asking for service abroad. He never received a reply from either official, but a few days later, the Department of the East, which he commanded, was divided into three small departments, Wood was relieved of his office and transferred to Charleston, S. C., headquarters of the new Southeastern Department.

While in Charleston, Wood laid out plans for eleven large National Army Camps, and three officers' training camps. He was then transferred to Camp Funston, Kansas, where he trained the Eighty-ninth and the Tenth Divisions.

This kicking of Wood from pillar to post had a double effect; it brought on the administration an avalanche of criticism and it enhanced Wood's popularity. The State of Kansas made him an honorary citizen through a proclamation by Governor Capper.

In November, 1917, General Wood was sent to France to observe military operations at the front as were all general officers in charge of training camps. While watching French artillery at work on January 27, 1918, he was severely wounded by a shell which burst inside a French gun, the whole gun crew being killed. General Wood recovered rapidly and returned to the United States, where he passed the severe physical examination for army officers destined for overseas service.

General Wood accompanied the Eighty-ninth Division, which he had trained, to New York for embarkation, expecting to command it in France. On arriving in New York, May 25, 1918, he received a telegram from Secretary of War Baker, relieving him of his command. The press unsparingly flayed the administration for this display of meanness of spirit. However, Wood was sent back to Funston. No one has ever heard him speak one word of protest against this shameful treatment. He continued to work night and day for victory, training troops, aiding the country in every way he could. In his campaign speeches of late he has time and again stated his refusal to criticise the Democratic administration. Let the Republicans do better than the Democrats is his slogan. He had the Tenth Division ready for overseas service when the armistice was signed.

After the armistice, Wood was assigned to the command of the Central Department with headquarters in Chicago where he still is. Of late several notable events have taken place illustrating his strong capability for public service.

About a year ago he organized the Chicago bureau for finding employment for returning soldiers. This organization became the model for the Federal bureau.

He was called upon to quell the race riot in Omaha, and to restore and maintain law and order in Gary, Indiana, and in the West Virginia coal fields during the steel and coal strikes. This Wood did without firing a shot. Moreover, his attitude toward the strikers in Gary and in the coal fields was so fair and impartial as to win the commendation of the labor leaders. The strikers were allowed to strike and picket in orderly fashion, and the workers were allowed to work. Wood took no sides. He merely kept order. He said he found nearly one hundred per cent of the strikers loyal Americans, who earnestly believed they were fighting for their rights. He did not compromise with the "Reds" at Gary. He arrested them.

There are few men in this land who can point to a life of more distinguished public service than Leonard Wood as doctor, soldier, administrator and business executive. A man of few words and big deeds, he typifies the best this nation has to offer. Roosevelt once said of him: "His rise has been astounding, and it has been due purely to his own striking qualifications and striking achievements."
